1. The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the plane was the cold. It was a sharp contrast to the warm, humid air of the tropics. The wind was biting, and the clouds were thick and grey. I shivered as I looked out over the vast, flat landscape.
The horizon was low, and the sky was overcast. The ground was a mix of brown and green, with patches of snow and ice. The air was heavy with the scent of burning wood and the distant smell of the sea. I took a deep breath and felt a sense of peace. The world was so different here, so much more quiet and still. I had found a new home, and I was finally at home.

1. The first of these is the fact that the population of the United States is increasing rapidly. This is due to a number of factors, including a high birth rate, a low death rate, and immigration. The result is that the country is becoming more crowded, and this has led to a number of problems, including a shortage of land, a shortage of water, and a shortage of food. These problems are all being caused by the fact that the population is increasing so rapidly.
2. The second of these is the fact that the United States is becoming more dependent on foreign countries for many of its needs. This is due to the fact that the country is becoming more crowded, and this has led to a shortage of many of the resources that are needed for the country to function properly. These resources include land, water, and food. The country is becoming more dependent on foreign countries for these resources, and this is a problem because the country is becoming more vulnerable to foreign influence.
